

Sarawut Khongwichit, PhD, is a postdoctoral researcher at the Center of Excellence in Clinical Virology, Faculty of Medicine, Chulalongkorn University, Thailand. His research focuses on emerging viral diseases, particularly arboviruses including dengue, chikungunya, Zika, and severe fever with thrombocytopenia syndrome virus (SFTSV). His work integrates molecular epidemiology, surveillance, and One Health approaches to better understand the transmission dynamics of emerging viruses in Southeast Asia.